

tributor) on Dyfi 1 and though he continued, went o.t.l. by the next control; almost as unlucky as Tony Fowkes who retired with what was thought to be an obscure electrical fault but turned out to be needing just a straight two-minute distributor change. Donald Heggie/George Dean with their Wiggins Teape IDEM Escort retired in the afternoon with a very noisy gearbox, their box being a previous type requiring a couple of hours to change. The box had stripped first gear on the start line on Sutton Park and second just a mile later, so the IDEM crew wisely called it a day when the protests from the box increased.

An incredible performance from Schewe and Linzen (Porsche Carrera), as reported last week, in achieving third position after the first six stages unfortunately came to nothing when the German crew were in collision with a non-competitor. The Porsche was apparently just leaving a lay-by with Linzen driving the following stage when the collision occurred, Linzen reported to have inadvertently driven off on the right-hand side of the road. Another German-entered Porsche Carrera survived; the car of Hauck and Weidmann finishing in 17th place after an impressive and often stylish drive ahead of the Knockhill Motor Sport Centre Escort of James Rae. Other incidents from lower down the field included the disqualification of George Beever for being caught using pace notes on both of the Epynt stages.

The Clubman's Trophy, with a maximum of 50 competitors starting on Monday morning for the north of England and Scottish sections (giving them 200 special stage miles, and the winner a free guaranteed entry in the 1975 event) was won by Keith Thomas and William Wilson, their Escort 1300 beating the Avenger GT of Chris Daisy by 1½ minutes.
